Re: CRP - ICGEB Research Grants Programme 2019
Project CRP/IND19-01

Dear Dr. Jain,

Thank you very much for your application "A molecular and immunological investigation of leishmaniasis from an unusual foci of cutaneous and visceral disease in India and Nepal" submitted in the context of the CRP-ICGEB Research Grants Programme 2019.

As previously indicated, the increasing success of the CRP-ICGEB Research Grants Programme has been reflected in the high number of sound scientific applications received (over 170 from 50 Member States), exceeding by far the financial allocation of this Programme. All projects have been comparatively evaluated by a Committee of 18 scientists of international standing, with the assistance of specific additional peer review when necessary.

The review has now been completed and I am pleased to inform you that your project has been positively evaluated and is thus eligible for funding. The Evaluation Committee proposed that the ICGEB award a grant of Euro 39,000 over a period of 3 years. A copy of the comments received from the external reviewers is here enclosed for your reference, and you might find them useful during the establishment of your project.

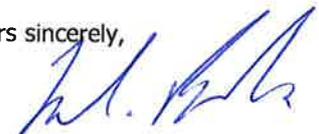

We are aware that the amount awarded is lower than that originally requested. Nevertheless, the Evaluation Committee considered the amount sufficient to ensure the successful completion of your project. We are certain you will understand our interest in supporting the largest number of excellent proposals as possible.

Please find attached a form to be completed, which provides the basis for issuing the relevant contract. In this form, you are also asked to revise your research activities according to the total amount awarded. The contract will be issued in the name of the Institution where the research activities will be carried out, as indicated on Form A1 of your application. Accordingly, all payments will be made by bank transfer to the bank account of the said Institution. In this respect, we wish to inform you that sub-contracting of funds to an Institution other than that responsible for the grant is not permitted.

The funds will be available as of January 2020 and the first payment will be made after finalisation of the relevant administrative procedures.

We wish to congratulate you on receiving this grant and remain confident that your research will constitute a major contribution to the broader ICGEB scientific community.

Yours sincerely,

PROPOSAL EVALUATION FORM

Proposal No.: CRP/IND19-01

Title: A molecular and immunological investigation of leishmaniasis from an unusual foci of cutaneous and visceral disease in India and Nepal

Please comment on the overall proposal and highlight areas for possible improvement or revision
(If necessary, please attach comments in a separate word doc page)

In this proposal, Prof Jain aims at studying and characterizing two newly emerging atypical foci of leishmaniasis, one in India and one in Nepal to understand why L. donovani pathology changed from a visceral to a cutaneous disease. She will not only sequence the genomes of the different isolates but also investigate immunological correlates in visceral and cutaneous patients, which is an important aspect of this study. Considering that the spread of new forms of leishmaniasis has been reported in other parts of the world and changes in pathology could impact on treatments and resistance, it is an important and timely study. There is a clear need to have more genomic and functional data to understand the emergence and spread of new forms of Leishmaniasis.

The two objectives and the experimental design are clear and well described. The collaboration with the group of Prof. Matlashewski is important in the feasibility of the first objective aimed the molecular characterization of the isolates from India and Nepal. The immune profiling of patients is necessary as it could provide benchmark information and understanding of the correlation between genetic polymorphisms and different pathologies in atypical leishmaniasis. In the long term, such studies could help in the identification of new virulence factors present in Leishmania and in understanding why different Leishmania species give rise to different pathologies. This is still an unsolved question and the only way to answer it is to accumulate data on the genetics of the parasites and on immune correlates. Finally, the last objective (mice studies) could help in defining the parameters useful to understand skin versus visceral dissemination.

The network proposed should be able to provide answers to the raised questions. The project is ambitious and my only concern is its feasibility in the proposed period.

Dear Prof. Yousuke,

I attached the print out itself in the visa documents. But visa office people want an original in the sense that it has to be a hard copy, not the scanned one posted to me by the inviting organisation. I know it is weird in this digital world. But this is what they want. It will be really kind of you, to send the original letter signed by you at the address in Delhi in my previous email. This is something urgent for me as I have done all my flight and travel booking with limited time left. I would not like to miss the opportunity to attend KTCC. Kindly extend your support in this direction.

Dear Participants,

First of all thank you for your contribution to our conference and the debates! We were really happy to welcome you in Linz.

I am contacting you concerning the reimbursement of your travel costs. We need original bills, no copy, no scans via mail. According to your flight costs we need your boarding pass and a bill or a credit card billing, further more we need a copy of your passport and eventual receipts for payments for our administrative accounting.

To our much-traveled guests, in order to speed up our payment it would be promoting if you send us scans in addition to the postal packet.

I am sorry for the inconvenience, but this is Austrian bureaucracy. Please don't hesitate to contact me if I can be of any further help!

Best wishes

Dear Saumedha Dutta,

I am contacting you on behalf of the organizing committee with a request. Sadly José Luis Coraggio had to cancel his conference participation. We are wondering, whether you would be interested in a Plenary Session with another Colleague. The Plenary would endure 60 minutes (20 minute input of each of you and 20 minutes discussion after the two inputs).

We would be really happy if you would positively response on our request. You were chosen based on you interesting abstract and we would be really happy if you decide in our favor. What do you think about a format like that?

Thank you!
